UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

The University of British Columbia is renowned for its international campus and its modern teaching methods. The Psychology department leads in research and is ranked 10th globally and 1st in Canada. It has a good reputation in my particular fields of interest, i.e. child development, language acquisition and happiness. In 2019 alumni collaborated to improve equity in child health. Former student and current Senior Instructor and Associate Head for undergraduates, Steven Burns, received multiple awards for teaching. It would be amazing to listen to his lectures. I was impressed to find that two Psychology students are amongst the finalists of the 3 Minute Thesis competition. In particular the research on bilingual infants' language development, this is interesting as I was brought up bilingual with English and German. Studying at one of the most successful Psychology departments would be a fulfilling opportunity. I would love to go to the annual Quinn Memorial Lecture. Another reason for applying to UBC is the city of Vancouver itself as I come from a small village in Scotland and I believe the many museums and events as well as the international environment would allow me to explore cultural diversity and broaden my horizons.

UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

The University of Vermont has a beautiful campus and is also known as the university of the green mountains due to its spectacular surroundings. The Psychology department opened in 1834 and since then has developed and grown. Recently, the department received a 10-year accreditation award under the current director of clinical training. The University offers a wide range of mentoring to take part in the active research, I believe this would be beneficial and give me further insight in the field of research. The university also has a very active Psychology club which organises many interesting events, this would allow me to meet people who are interested in Psychology. This university is very appealing with regard to the wide range of outdoor activities in the area, and the university offers a range of extra-curricular sporting activities such as women's ice hockey and skiing. This would allow me to try new sports and help make new friends. I believe I would fit in very well there. I would like to join the VCATS at Vermont University I believe I could be a great asset to the team and represent the University of Aberdeen positively.

UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

Queens University has a very active Psychology department, they have recently discovered new knowledge about language and cognition and found that adults learn languages differently to children. I find this subject area very interesting as I was brought up bilingual with German and English. Studying at Queens University would allow me to get an insight into this fascinating research. Furthermore Dean Tripp, a scholar focussing on mental training in sport, has worked with all the sports teams and individuals to improve mental resilience, for example pre-game anxiety, stress and lack of self confidence. I would love to meet Dean Tripp and learn about this. I am very active and have always competed in sporting events and most recently have joined the AU Netball team which includes 2 games a week against other clubs. Queens University lies in Kingston which was rated in the top 5 university towns in the world by the BBC, this would allow me to explore a new city. The opportunity would lead to building up friendships and connections from all over the world. The university also lies between Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa this would allow me to explore several exciting cities in Canada.

UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

The university's motto is 'mens agitat molem', mind moves the mass. It is shared by many important institutions such as the Military Academy of the German Armed Forces. Being bi-lingual with Scottish and German parents, I like this motto. The university is surrounded by astonishing scenery with its mountains, rivers and lakes, I believe this would be a beautiful place to visit and study. The University of Oregon offers a wide range of athletic activities to take part and to watch the Ducks sports teams thrive. I am a very sporty person and I therefore look forward to the World Championships in Athletics that will be hosted by Eugene, Ontario in 2021. The city of Eugene offers culture, art and music this would give me the opportunity to explore all of what the city has to offer. The university offers additional research experience for undergraduates, which would be extremely beneficial for me and allow me to grow in the field of research.

UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

Clemson University was named after Thomas Clemson post civil war, in 1856, who was an education enthusiast and bequeathed assets to the university. Clemson University has an excellent reputation for a hands down education and was named for having "Best public college values." The university has multiple links and has worked with countries all around the world such as China, the Czech Republic, and the Philippines which has given the university recognition for international community development. Senior Psychology student Melondy Munsen highlights the joyful campus and the feeling of being connected. University can be challenging especially being in a new place, the university has a sense of community which appeals to me. Clemson University also offers a wide range of co-curricular and extra-curricular activities for example there is the opportunity to enrol in undergraduate practicums. This would be an enriching opportunity that would help gain more experience in the field of Psychology.
